

Dear friends,

In weeks, fish secretly raised on pork will be on our dinner plates unless we raise a massive resistance now.

Europe just decided to allow ground up pig meat into fish feed. This fish is imported and sold in vast quantities across the Middle East and there won't be any labels to let us know that the fish we are eating and feeding our families were raised on pork!

The new rules allowing pig meat into fish feed take effect in weeks and the European Commission is hoping that no one will notice. If we raise a massive outcry now, our governments will have every incentive to ban porkfish from entering our markets or risk a massive scandal! When we get to 100,000, we'll create a media storm to deliver our message straight to government officials. In weeks, we could be eating fish raised on pig meat. . But if we raise a massive outcry, we can stop porkfish from entering our markets! Click the link and sign:

The move to allow ground up pig meat into fish is dangerous. The same fish feed the EC just authorised was banned in 1997 for its connection to Mad Cow Disease -- a deadly epidemic that spread around the world. There is no such thing in nature as a fish eating pork, but the European Commission is under serious pressure from lobbyists who want to make fish farming cheaper.

The European Commission needs to know that they are the ones who will lose if they allow our food to become secretly contaminated with pork. Our government officials could have a scandal on their hands if they're seen as allowing pork-fed fish into our countries. If we let them know we demand a ban, they have every incentive to enact one and should the entire Middle East ban the import of these fish, Europe will lose a massive market and need to reconsider its decision.

We only have weeks left before pig meat enters our fish. Let's send a strong message to our government officials to keep porkfish out of our markets to force the European Commission to reverse the decision and to keep pork out of our fish. Sign the petition and share with all your friends:

Avaaz members have come together before to protect the natural world and our food system from dangerous meddling. Over 1 million of us spoke out against genetically modified food in Europe and another million of us have taken action against mutant salmon. Let's all come together now and save our food from porkfish.

With hope and determination,

Dalia, Bissan, Marie, Rewan, Mais, Mohammad, Wissam, and the whole Avaaz team
